

Craig Carleton

Controller

Craig Carleton joined the Latter and Blum Team in 1989. In addition to a Bachelor of Science Degree in Accounting from the University of New Orleans, Craig has an extensive real estate background which serves him well as Controller of Latter & Blum Property Management. Prior to joining the Company, Craig was a Partner in both a successful real estate brokerage firm and a construction company that built multi-family communities, single-family Homes, and commercial properties. Craig's combination of hands-on investment real estate experience and education give him a thorough understanding of the needs of our customers for accurate, timely, and relevant accounting information.

As Controller, Craig is responsible for all facets of Latter & Blum Property Management's Accounting Department, including day-to-day accounting as well as financial forecasting and accurate monthly reporting. Craig is motivated by the challenges that come with Latter and Blum's client and asset diversity. His philosophy to best serve the client's needs by effectively and consistently communicating with each owner has allowed Latter and Blum Property Management to grow by establishing a trusting relationship between Latter & Blum and its' clients. Craig's understanding of rapidly-changing financial technology has been instrumental in supporting the Company's continued rapid growth while maintaining effective financial reporting for all clients.

Affiliations, Recognitions & Memberships

Licensed Real Estate Broker,
State of Louisiana

Board of Governors, Junior
Achievement of Greater New Orleans

Louisiana Society of Enrolled Agents

National Association of Enrolled Agents

Licensed Louisiana Commercial
General Contractor